REEFER MADNESS: THE MUSICAL

Written by Kevin Murphy and Dan Studney

September 24-October 31, 2010

Loosely based on the 1938 cult film classic "Reefer Madness," this campy musical comedy "warns" of the dangers of marijuana. The tale follows our hero as he transforms from sports star to murdering drug fiend. A live rock and roll band and musical tunes that will keep you humming for days.

NEW! LATE NIGHT SHOW: ZOMBIE

Written by Bill Connington & adapted from the novella by JOYCE CAROL OATES

October 15, 16, 22, 23, 29, 30, 2010

If this dramatic West Coast premiere doesn't scare you, you're already dead. A psychopath kidnaps children and tries unsuccessfully to turn them into zombies with an ice pick. Not suitable for anyone under 16.

MARTHA, JOSIE AND THE CHINESE ELVIS

Written by Charlotte Jones

November 26-December 19, 2010

Sure to become a holiday comedy classic, this West Coast premiere features a 40-year-old dominatrix going into retirement during the holidays. Add her obsessive-compulsive maid, the arrival of a "dead" daughter, and help from a singing Chinese Elvis, and this unique world comes together with heartwarming laughter.

CLEAN HOUSE

Written by Sarah Ruhl

February 11-March 6, 2011

In this clever offbeat comedy, a doctor hires a maid who hates to clean, but who is in search of the perfect joke. To cover for the maid, the doctor's sister secretly takes over the housecleaning. In the laundry, the sister finds foreign underwear. As the doctor's marriage unravels, true love emerges and the perfect joke is found.
